Hands on wheel, off hairbrush

Personal grooming, along with texting, reading and writing, among driver distractions targeted by newly passed legislation Hands-free devices still allowed

Chatting on your cellphone or flossing your teeth while driving could cost you $172 under a new distracted driving law passed by the Alberta legislature.

Transportation Minister Luke Ouellette called Bill 16 the "most comprehensive" legislation in Canada.

It restricts the use of hand-held phones and activities such as texting, reading, writing and personal grooming.

It does allow use of hands-free phones.

Radio communication devices such as CB radios are permitted for commercial purposes and search-and-rescue services.

Drivers may also use hand-held devices to contact emergency services such as 911.

"This legislation is a bold approach and goes beyond restricting cellphones and deals with the broader issue of distracted driving," said Ouellette in a news release.

"Our message is clear: Keep your hands on the wheel and your eyes on the road."

The legislation was sponsored by Art Johnson, Tory member for Calgary-Hays.

"As a former police officer, I have witnessed the terrible consequences of distracted driving and I am glad we are taking action," he said.

It is expected the legislation will take effect by the middle of 2011.

The president of Canada's Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons has criticized the plan for allowing hands-free devices.

Dr. Louis Francescutti has called that exemption "misguided" and "dangerous."

"It's going to kill more lives than it saves," he said. "They should be ashamed of themselves." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Details

- There would be no demerit points issued along with the $172 fine.
- But drivers can face additional charges if they commit other violations such as running a red light or making an improper lane change.
- The personal grooming regulation would apply to drivers who are doing things such as putting on makeup, curling their hair, clipping their nails or shaving.

Local scientists capture antimatter atoms

Science fiction has become science fact after a group of researchers devised a way to hang on to antimatter, which gleeful experts say could unlock one of the mysteries of the universe.

Canadian experts from Simon Fraser University, the University of B.C., the University of Calgary, York University and the TRIUMF national research lab were part of the 40-person international team to make the discovery in Geneva. Scientists have been creating antimatter for 15 years, but it moves at about the speed of light and is quickly destroyed. Now this group has devised a type of magnetic bottle that is able to hold the antimatter for about one-tenth of a second, giving them a way to study the anti-atom.

Marcello Pavan, a physicist with TRIUMF, calls the device amazing and says it could give some insight into what happened after the Big Bang created the universe. Pavan says the discovery gives scientists the tools to possibly solve the question of why all the antimatter disappeared after the big bang, leaving nothing but matter to create the universe.

▶ City council managed to agree on $47 million in budget adjustments to keep the tax increase at 6.7 per cent, but still face decisions on another possible $35 million to axe.

The budget cut buffet line

Budget adjustments grouped by level of impact on Calgarians ◐ Nenshi says it's unlikely council will approve all $35 million in additional cuts

CALGARY@METRONEWS.CA

Council received the "buffet" of budget cut options Mayor Naheed Nenshi asked for yesterday and will look to trim the tax rate even more.

During a special meeting of council, administration presented council with a list of reductions totalling more than $47 million to reach the proposed tax rate increase of 6.7 per cent.

In addition to those cuts, administration came forward with more budget reduction options to the tune of more than $36 million, which would reduce the tax increase by nearly four per cent.

"If we were to go with the 6.7 per cent budget, I think Calgarians would be satisfied with the services they receive, however there is a desire for us to explore options to take that tax increase below $6.60 per month," said Nenshi.

Administration organized the additional $35-million options into groups based on their level of impact on citizens.

"I don't think council will have an appetite for that full $35 million ... but I certainly think there's stuff in there that we can have a very good discussion about," said Nenshi.

Ald. Andre Chabot said the recommendations for the $47 million in cuts would be easy for council to swallow.

"The 6.7 (per cent) isn't an issue," he said. "The question is can we reduce it further. I think right now, it's a big challenge."

Have your say at calgaryletters @metronews.ca

Options

Some of the options presented by administration for $35 million in additional cuts include:

- $4.6 million in reductions to internal support services such as human resources and IT
- $6.9 million in reductions to services such as Parks, Recreation and Animal Bylaw Services
- $11.6 million in reductions to priority areas like transit, community program support and growth of the Calgary Public Library

Charges laid in assault on baby

A Calgary-area man has been charged in connection with an alleged assault on his six-month-old daughter.

RCMP say they were called Sunday to a home in Airdrie, where they found the infant with bruising and swelling on her joints and upper body.

The baby was taken to Airdrie Regional Health Centre with minor injuries and released later that day.

Const. Robert Frizzell, an RCMP spokesman, says the baby was smiling and in good spirits when she was released.

There were no other children in the home when the baby was found.

Canada Olympic Park opening for winter fun

With Old Man Winter cranking up the snow and cold, we need something to turn our attention away from the traffic snarls and driveway shovelling.

Wouldn't it be great to get out on the slopes?

You'll be able to get your start this weekend as Canada Olympic Park is ready to open up for the 2010-11 season.

With temperatures consistently below -10 C, snowmakers have had the snow machines on full blast to complement the steady stream of snow so far this week.

It's a sign with the time

Signs forecast Deerfoot Trail travel times ◐ Pilot project will be held until Nov. 23 ◐ Project launched in partnership with Alberta government

@METRONEWS.CA

KATIE TURNER/FOR METRO

▶ Calgarians will now have travel times posted at 12 Deerfoot Trail locations as a part of a week-long pilot project.

We all find ourselves, at one time or another asking, "how much longer is this going to take?" while travelling Deerfoot Trail.

Thanks to a City of Calgary pilot project, now, you'll know.

Until Nov. 23, the city will utilize 12 variable message boards along Deerfoot Trail to get its travel time information to the public, using bluefax technology that captures MAC data from vehicle Bluetooth devices, and measures that vehicle's travel time from point A to point B, according to city traffic manager Troy McLeod.

And that has some Calgarians saying "nice work."

"I was quite impressed when I saw them this morning," said Almoonir Dewji, who travels up Bow Bottom Trail on to Deerfoot daily.

"It will be very useful to drivers. Up to now, the signs on Deerfoot have been pointless."

According to McLeod, the travel time system is updated as soon as they get a new reading from passing vehicles, downloaded instantly from the signs. He said it's manually updated as often as necessary. "Providing estimated travel times will allow motorists to know their destination travel time and make use of that information for route choices," said McLeod.

Automation

- If the city were to move forward with the program it would be fully automated, said McLeod.
- Software development for a longer-term project is estimated at $5,000, according to McLeod.
- That software could also be used for other point-of-origin data collection projects.

The precision is important to drivers like Dewji, who would use it to make informed route choices.

"It needs to be as accurate as possible, or it's useless," he said.

McLeod said it's possible the system could run on other thoroughfares in the future, and be tied into a vehicle's navigation system to update the best possible routes.

Lacrosse team celebrating 10 years in Calgary

It's been a decade of hard-hitting and fast-paced action at the Saddledome for the Calgary Roughnecks of the National Lacrosse League, and this upcoming season they're going to honour that history with a new commemorative jersey and logo.

According to a news release sent out by the club, the new jersey will have a revamped logo that captures the "Xtreme" factor the Roughnecks are looking for in the upcoming season.

The Roman numeral "X" will be a part of that logo, representing the 10 years the team has been a part of the city's sports scene.

The Roughnecks have been a part of the NLL since 2001.

Stelmach talks tough times

Premier Ed Stelmach says tough times and tight-fisted budgets remain the order of the day in Alberta as new figures show the province is still expected to hit its forecast deficit of $4.7 billion.

"We're holding the line on our expenditures, but we will continue to show a deficit based on the investment we're making in infrastructure," Stelmach told reporters yesterday.

"It's going to be a tough year," he added, given that Alberta's resource-based economy is linked primarily to customers in the United States.

"There's a considerable amount of unpredictability in some of the economic growth in the United States," he said. "Americans are struggling."

While natural gas prices are forecast to remain low, Stelmach said there are signs the overall resource industry is on the rebound.

He noted the government estimated that it would earn $600 million from oil and gas leases this year, but he said that figure is now forecast to come in at $2 billion this fiscal year.

Personal devices test air quality

People who live in Alberta's oilsands regions are learning how to use a device to test air quality.

The do-it-yourself devices look like buckets and are being distributed by California-based Global Community Monitor.

Spokesman Denny Larson says the devices will allow people to collect samples at times when air quality appears to be bad.

He says government and industry often use averages, which downplay the effect of severe pollution.

Melina Laboucan-Massimo of Greenpeace says some people in northern Alberta are developing an inherent distrust of government and industry air tests.

Greenpeace says there is an increasing number of cases of respiratory illness in the region.

Bristol Palin's dance a blast — of a shotgun

‘Raging’ man shot up his TV during Dancing With The Stars, wife says ‘He scared the bejebees out me’

A rural Wisconsin man apparently enraged by Bristol Palin's Dancing With The Stars routine blasted his television with a shotgun, leading to an all-night standoff with a SWAT team, investigators say.

Steven Cowan, 67, was arrested after officers coaxed him out of his house in Vermont, a farming community near Madison, Wis.

Cowan, who is accused of threatening his wife with the gun after destroying the TV, appeared in a Madison courtroom yesterday on a charge of second-degree reckless endangerment.

His bail was set at $1,500.

Cowan's wife, Janice Cowan, told investigators her husband suffers from bipolar disorder and threatened her life in the past.

According to court documents, Janice Cowan said her husband came home Monday from the bar and had a beer with dinner before they settled down to watch Dancing With The Stars.

When Palin, the 20-year-old daughter of U.S. politician Sarah Palin, began her routine, Cowan jumped up and began swearing.

Janice Cowan said her husband left the living room and reappeared 20 minutes later with his shotgun, “raging” with his face bright red, and blasted the TV.

“He scared the bejebees out of me,” she told detectives.

Plenty of folks don't want their junk touched

New viral sensation captures frustration of crew, passengers over enhanced security at U.S. airports

REBEKAH BUTLER/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ John Tyner

The refusal of an American air traveller to go through a body scanner has given rise to an Internet sensation, and has the U.S. government defending the controversial machines.

John Tyner blogged about his refusal to undergo a full-body scan or pat-down at San Diego International Airport. When he was singled out for a body scan, Tyner refused, as he was entitled to do provided he instead submitted to a body pat-down by an agent.

The security agent explained to Tyner that he would have to touch his groin area.

"We can do that out here, but if you touch my junk I'm going to have you arrested," Tyner is heard saying on the recording.

Tyner offered to go through a metal detector, but eventually was escorted back to the ticketing area, where he got a refund.

He documented his experience on the Internet, where video of his airport encounter has been viewed hundreds of thousands of times, and he has done a series of media interviews.

Tyner's refusal has led to online sales of T-shirts, bumper stickers, hats and underwear with the words, "Don't Touch My Junk!"

Annoyance at U.S. security hassles has been on the rise among airline crews and passengers for years, but the widespread use of full-body image detectors this year and the simultaneous introduction of more intrusive pat-downs seems to have ramped up the frustration. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

OIL RIG ATTACK

'Military operation' frees a Canadian

A Canadian oil worker abducted by gunmen during an attack on an oil rig off the coast of Nigeria was released yesterday after what sources said was a military operation.

Bob Croke, a St. John's, N.L, area resident was taken hostage Nov. 8 during the attack at the Okoro oilfield, 11 kilometres off the coast of Nigeria's Akwa Ibom state. Two Americans, two Frenchmen and two Indonesians were also abducted.

In a Facebook posting, Croke's niece, Danielle Croke, said she was very happy her uncle is safe.

"Been holding our breath on this since it happened. Soooooo happy he's alright," she wrote.

It could all depend on England's weather — or the FA Cup final

Based on the official statement, Prince William and his bride-to-be Kate Middleton could be married any time between March and September next year.

But anyone who has spent any time in England knows that reliable sunshine can only be had about six weeks of the year.

That narrows the list of possible dates.

The FA Cup final is scheduled for May 15 in London's Wembley Stadium. So that date is out.

Ditto July 2 (the Wimbledon final) and June 10 (the 90th birthday of Prince Philip).

June 21 is William's 29th birthday, which could make for a nice, cost-saving combined party on either June 18 or 25.

Breathe easy — asthma on decline

Decrease in rates of smoking one of the factors that has helped reduce cases in children aged 2 to 7: Experts

Asthma cases have dropped among two- to seven-year-olds to their lowest level in more than a decade, Statistics Canada reported yesterday.

One factor that may have contributed to the decline is the hand-in-hand drop in smoking rates across the country, along with changes in diagnosis patterns, experts say.

The percentage of kids with asthma rose to 13 per cent from 11 per cent from 1994 to 2001, but by last year, the figure had fallen to 10 per cent.

Since the turn of the century, the percentage of kids with asthma has fallen in the Atlantic provinces, Ontario and Quebec, but remained fairly stable in the Prairie provinces and British Columbia, the study showed.

Dr. Allan Becker, a pediatric allergist, said the overall findings don't surprise him.

"There are two things that I think are probably going on. One is that we may actually be seeing a real plateau in asthma prevalence, and that's entirely possible," he said from Winnipeg, where he is head of the section of Allergy and Clinical Immunology in the department of pediatrics and child health at the University of Manitoba.

"And, secondly, that there is that diagnostic perception now that not all that wheezes is asthma. That's an aphorism that we've heard from our professors many, many, many years ago, mostly speaking about adults. But now that's equally true in terms of children."

The study found that a significantly higher percentage of boys than girls had been diagnosed with asthma over the 14-year period. The upturn in asthma prevalence to 2000 and the decline that followed was seen in all age groups.

A key finding is that the percentage of children with asthma who reported an asthma attack in the past 12 months fell steadily to 36 per cent last year from 53 per cent in the mid-1990s.

Becker gives credit to education targeted at children, their families, primary care physicians and pediatricians.

Create offshore agency: Official

Newfoundland's offshore oil industry needs a separate agency to better oversee safety, the head of a probe into chopper safety said yesterday.

Commissioner Robert Wells said he issued 29 recommendations to improve the transportation of offshore oil workers after Cougar Flight 491 crashed into the Atlantic Ocean last year, killing 17 people.

Wells said his top recommendation is to establish an offshore safety body or an autonomous division within the Canada-Newfoundland and Labrador Offshore Petroleum Board, which regulates the industry.

"One of the most important thrusts of the report is that regulation should be strengthened and become more proactive and vigorous — and that safety should never, ever be taken for granted," Wells said in an interview.

Housing market collapse?

U.S. economist says inflated housing prices in Canada should ring alarm bells

One of the few economists to accurately predict America's housing meltdown is warning Canadians they could face something similar if steps are not taken to restrain the sector.

Dean Baker of the Washington-based Centre for Economic and Policy Research says he sees no reason why average home prices in Canada should be about 50 per cent higher than in the United States.

Noting that average incomes in Canada are lower than those in the U.S. and land values are not appreciably higher, the fundamentals don't justify the price premium, Baker said.

"It looks to me like you have some real problems," he said. "There's a lot of things that look ominous. Debt to income ratios in Canada are close to what they were in the U.S. at the peak of the bubble, so there could be some pretty serious fallout."

Canada could see house prices collapse by 25 to 30 per cent if interest rates rise by about two percentage points, he said.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

The bailout

- Dean Baker has ridiculed the U.S. elite for favouring the bailout, asking, "How do you make a D.C. intellectual look less articulate than Sarah Palin being interviewed by Katie Couric? That's easy. You ask them how failure to pass the bailout will give us a Great Depression."

Papers stolen from Carney

The Bank of Canada is reviewing its security procedures after sensitive documents were stolen from governor Mark Carney's car earlier this month.

It is still not known whether all the documents stolen from the Bank of Canada governor have been recovered, a government official says.

CAN'T WE JUST SKIP THE WHOLE CHARADE?

He says ...

JOHN MAZEROLLE

If I were king for a day, I would abolish the monarchy.

I've used that joke for years and I still don't understand why we pay so much attention to a group of inbred photo posers who have all the power of a 20-watt light bulb.

The latest news to have monarchists in a tizzy is, of course, the engagement of Prince "Two sniper shots from the crown" William and Kate. All I really know about them is that she's pretty, while he's the one that started handsome and got British looking, as opposed to his brother, who started British looking and got handsome.

I know monarchists like to rant about the institution's historic importance, but here's a quote from their post-engagement interview, which got more media coverage than the moon landing: "When I was trying to impress Kate, I was trying to cook these amazing fancy dinners and what would happen was I would burn something ... so I was quite glad she was there at the time."

That knocking sound you hear is me banging my head off the table repeatedly.

Canadians love to mock Americans for their allegiance to God, but here we are under the monarchy, essentially our spiritual leader — specifically, an awkward family led by an old woman from another country who speaks to God on our behalf.

If I were religious, I would wonder why everybody else gets to speak with The Boss while I keep getting forwarded to the regional office.

"If I were religious, I would wonder why everybody else gets to speak with The Boss while I keep getting forwarded to the regional office."

I trust that very few people accept the crown on a religious level, but then the question becomes: Why do we need a monarchy at all?

The monarchy exists so we can: 1. Pretend they're not real people; and 2. Act shocked when they act like real people. If they do something normal, like grieve at a funeral, we laud them for being just like us. If they do something normal like get a divorce, we rip them for being just like us. Can't we just skip the whole charade?

Even on its most frivolous level, the monarchy is redundant. It was annoying to me in the '90s because it was clearly the Everest of pop culture, famous "because it's there."

But today, who isn't famous for being famous? What reality show contestant doesn't think they speak for the masses? What celebrity doesn't believe they have the wisdom of a god?

And if everyone can be king or queen, why do we need one?

Common sense is dead. Long live the king.

More gloom predicted

Worth mentioning

A new report says India could be 2 C warmer than 1970s levels within 20 years — a change that would disrupt rain cycles and wreak havoc on the country's agriculture and freshwater supplies, experts said yesterday.

More flooding, more drought and a spreading of malaria would occur, as the disease migrates northward into Kashmir and the Himalayas, according to the report by 220 Indian scientists and 120 research institutions.

The temperature rise, which could be even more extreme along the coasts, would cause drastic changes in India's rain cycles that threaten water supplies and agriculture — the key source of livelihood for most of India's 1.2 billion people.

The report comes out just weeks before the Nov. 29 start of the UN climate summit in Cancun, Mexico, where nations will try again to reach a global agreement to limit greenhouse gas emissions thought to contribute to global warming. India's many ecosystems and proximity to the equator make it particularly sensitive to climate change, experts say. The fact most of the country relies on freshwater sources, rather than desalinating sea water, amplifies the threat of global warming on society. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

As an actress, Elizabeth Banks is impossible to put in a box. In one fall movie season, she was alternately in a comedy about a homemade porno at the same time that she appeared in W as former first lady Laura Bush. Even now, while currently starring as Jack Donaghy's love interest in NBC's comedy 30 Rock, she's appearing in Theatres as a suicidal heroine in the suspense film The Next Three Days, alongside Russell Crowe.

"I feel like I was getting a little bit caught up in being the girl in a bunch of boy's funny movies and it just becomes less interesting the more and more you do that," the actress explains while munching on some M&M's in New York's Waldorf Astoria Hotel. "To be presented with something that was going to challenge a whole other set of tools that I have as an actor and also to be able to play with Russell and [director] Paul Haggis, who are just at the top of their game, it was such a no-brainer."

"I feel like I was getting a little bit caught up in being the girl in a bunch of boy's funny movies..."
ELIZABETH BANKS, ACTRESS

In the The Next Three Days, her character, Lara Brennan, is accused of a murder that she claims she didn't commit. When her mental health begins to deteriorate behind bars as it becomes clear that she cannot escape her fate, husband John (Crowe) plans to go to any lengths to save her.

Behind bars

Banks interviewed some inmates to learn the details of their day-to-day lives for her role.

- Prison She plays the role of a woman on edge behind bars
- Inmates drained their prison toilets and used the pipes as a phone system. "Whoever is on your pipe system, you can start talking to at night," Banks said.

Charismatic, modest Denzel Washington

His latest film looks at the struggles of the working class in the U.S. Actor's goal was to be on Broadway

JERÔME VERMELIN
METRO WORLD NEWS IN PARIS

At age 55, Denzel Washington plays a veteran railway engineer chasing after a runaway train in the high-octane action flick Unstoppable, loosely based on a real-life incident.

Metro met the charismatic yet modest two-time Academy Award-winning actor in Paris, where he has been promoting his latest film.

Unstoppable is your fifth movie with [director] Tony Scott. What's the secret of your collaboration?

I love him! We had a lot of success together and we get along pretty well. We are good friends. He's a good director and I trust him. And, he keeps calling me!

You had a humble upbringing in New York. Your latest film, about railway workers stuck in a crisis, sounds like a tribute to the American working class?

This is not the reason why I accepted the part in the movie, but it quickly became a tribute to the people we met where we filmed, in Ohio, in the west of Pennsylvania and Virginia.

Some of these regions are deprived, with a high unemployment rate and where people who have a job are working very hard to keep it.

Unstoppable is not only about a train running out of control. It's also about problems the U.S. is living in right now.

You were the second African American man (after Sidney Poitier in 1958) to win the Oscar for Best Actor. Was he a big influence on you?

Not really as when I started acting, Sidney was already shooting comedies. He wasn't playing in many dramas at that stage. And the only black star at the time was Richard Pryor, who was more like a comic.

Therefore, I had no references. I took theatre classes; people thought I was quite good and I liked it. I was dreaming of a career on Broadway, not on the big screen. Hollywood wasn't such an appeal. I was more attracted by independent movies. I loved Taxi Driver, for instance.

Do you share the same values as your film's character?

Not necessarily. Look, my character Frank Lucas in American Gangster is a murderer and a drug dealer, and I don't share a thing with this guy! It's the same thing with Alonzo Harris in Training Day.

A fashion icon in the making?

A ring connects them, but what about their sense of style? A look at how Kate Middleton stacks up against Princess Diana, and to the legacy Lady Di built.

KENYA HUNT

METRO WORLD NEWS IN LONDON

Ugg boots, Jigsaw dresses and bootleg jeans.

From the looks of her conservative, unfussy personal style up to date, Kate Middleton, henceforth known as the future queen of England, doesn't seem to have the chops to make her a fashion legend — yet.

Princess Diana didn't become the powerful fashion force we like to remember her as until much later in her marriage to Prince Charles.

Now that a ring connects the two women comparisons will be plentiful.

Will Kate be a quick study, and transition into the big leagues of impeccably turned out ladies, joining Michelle Obama and Carla Bruni as modern-day international icons? We measure her odds.

Ups and downs

Princess Diana
In a sign of better dressed days to come, Lady Diana paired a flouncy blouse with her statement coat.

Princess Diana
Only Lady Diana could look like the young, ethereal ingénue in a frumpy sweater vest and skirt. Natural beauty aside, the outfit is terribly dowdy.

Kate Middleton
The girl likes boots. But thankfully, she replaced the Uggs with a more equestrian-inspired look.

Kate Middleton
Ugg boots, a seashell necklace and blazer do not a fashion-plate make.

Princess Diana
As her wedding day drew near, Lady Diana dropped the sweaters but kept the deep V and ruffles.

Kate Middleton
This see-through Project Runway reject dress helped Kate land Prince William, but makes the rest of us cringe.

Kate Middleton
She's not topping any best-dressed lists in this outfit, but Kate already has a more sophisticated look than Lady Di did during the same stage in her courtship.

Princess Diana
V-necks galore. As a princess, Diana was known for drop dead gorgeous, body-hugging gowns. But as a single lady, she stuck with safe and personality-less sweaters.

Calling it quits: Longoria files for divorce

Desperate Housewives star cites irreconcilable differences in split

Less than four years after a storybook wedding in Paris, Eva Longoria filed court papers yesterday to divorce basketball star Tony Parker, citing irreconcilable differences.

Longoria, a star of TV's Desperate Housewives, and Parker, an NBA All-Star with the San Antonio Spurs, were married in a civil ceremony on July 6, 2007. Each posted a statement on their Twitter accounts addressing the divorce.

"We love each other deeply and pray for each other's happiness," it said.

They have no children together.

Longoria has one previous marriage.

BAG talks about past breakup

Brian Austin Green and Megan Fox are happily married now, but he's finally opening up about their brief split in 2009 — and Green says it was his idea once she became famous.

"The reality is, she was 18 when I met her and she went through an enormous change in her life," he tells Access Hollywood.

"I didn't want her to feel like she was stuck because she said she wanted to be in a relationship to begin with and we just never really went in different directions. We'd say, 'Oh, let's kind of take a break and see what's going on.' It always came back together."

Lovato getting cabin fever during rehab stay

Demi Lovato is reportedly getting antsy cooped up in her rehab facility, and she's looking to check out early, according to Hollyscoop.

Sources say the Disney star is eager to head home from the treatment facility for Thanksgiving, and it doesn't sound like she has plans in returning to rehab after.

Even if she stays out, reps at Disney have made it clear they won't be hurrying her back to work on her series, Sonny with a Chance. METRO

Pink went on Ellen DeGeneres' talk show to confirm that she and husband Cary Hart are in fact expecting.

"I didn't want to talk about it because I was just really nervous and I have had a miscarriage before," Pink says. "I worked for it. It was not an, 'Oops!'" The singer also says she thinks she's having a baby girl, which she says is fitting. "My mom has always wished me a daughter just like me," she says with a laugh. # How to put your stamp on the camel coat

Just because it's the most inescapable item of the season, doesn't mean you can't make it your own. Take a cue from this real-life look, by working in unexpected details like bold prints and sheer fabrics.

Remix her style

KENYA HUNT
METRO WORLD NEWS

You were psyched when you first bought your camel coat. Then you started seeing it on one woman after another (and another and another) on the street. You'd choose not to wear it, but you've already spent money on the thing.

Now what do you do? For one, embrace the challenge to flex the part of your personal style that makes you an individual.

The woman pictured here did this through fresh details: polka dots peeking out from under a basic black sweater and a sheer skirt that contrasts the coat's heavy wool. For a final touch, she added some snazzy eyeliner.

MORE WAYS TO PERSONALIZE YOUR CAMEL COAT

The beauty of the coat? It looks great with anything. The downside? It can read boring. So, punch it up!

NEW BUTTONS

- Swap out the coat's original buttons for something that reveals a little bit more personality such as a vintage-looking style with a metal crest or an oversized resin flower.

EXPERIMENT WITH ADD-ONS

- Have fun with add-ons by tying an embellished belt or velvet sash around the waistline. It will make your coat look more unique and help trap in heat on chilly days.

CHANGE THE LINING

- Pick out a boldly printed fabric. Take it to your nearest tailor (your neighbourhood dry cleaner should have one) and have the old lining replaced. Show it off by rolling up your coat sleeves or wearing your coat casually unbuttoned.

Style in brief

From the collieries to the royal court, the flat cap has been a favourite for generations.

Also known as the six pence or scally cap, it's less extravagant and easier to wear than brimmed styles.

It's also inconspicuous and lightweights, making New York Hat Company's style the perfect gift for the modestly fashion-conscious man in your life. It costs $49 at mywardrobe.com.

Getting that winter glow

Clinton Hardesty, education director at Elemis, demonstrates how to keep your complexion radiant when harsh weather conditions and indoor heating dry it out.

1 Invest in a good night cream (no, the day cream won't work).

"Your skin goes through a reparative restorative phase at night and that's triggered by sleep, so finding a night cream that is especially oriented to the processes of your skin is very helpful during the winter," advises Hardesty. "They're designed to work synergistically with what your skin is going through during slumber," he adds.

2 Go easy on the exfoliation.

"Move away from granulated exfoliants in the winter and use more enzyme based exfoliants, which are gentler," he says.
Try: Bliss Peeling Groovy Serum, $65

3 Eye cream = youth serum.

Hardesty says eye cream is key. "In the winter, you don't have oil production in the curves around your eye area, so it's much more susceptible to drying out," he says. The skin around your eyes is also a lot more prone to aging.
Try: Olay Total Effects Eye Cream, $12

For him: winter moisturizer

These winter products are tailored to meet specific manly skin needs

OK, we all know that moisturizer calms dry skin and it should be used on a daily basis, especially during the dry months of the winter season.

But the new wave of men's offerings do so much more.

Most notably, they ease the stress of constant shaving, which actually strips the skin of several layers.

From razor burn to overall soreness, these day creams help smooth out winter's facial tricky spots.

▶ Sure you can paint the walls. But better ask the landlord first.

Making your place your home

KRISTEN LIPSCOMBE
HOMES@METRONEWS.CA

There's no place like home.

But when you're renting, you can't just click your heels together to magically feel comfortable in your new digs, so what can you do when you first move in to make your Calgary apartment feel more like, well, yours?

Legally speaking, the short answer is "nothing," Gerry Baxter, executive director of the Calgary Residential Rental Association, told Metro with a chuckle recently.

"When tenants move into an apartment … the space that they rent does not belong to them," he said. "They've just taken … temporary custody of it, so they're not allowed to make any changes at all without the consent of the landlord."

That means no renovations, no painting the walls, no changing the locks and no other aesthetic additions that could be deemed "damage" without permission.

Baxter said his non-profit group representing landlords recommends any requested changes to a rental unit always be put down on paper and signed by both parties.

He pointed to one particular example in Calgary where decorative tastes differed greatly, resulting in the landlord suing the tenant civilly.

"The tenant decided that they wanted to paint the inside of the place, (but) they didn't speak with the landlord," he said. "When the landlord went in at move-out time … the place was painted black — every single room. What that really constitutes is damage."

That being said, changes considered reasonable "wear and tear" are acceptable and expected, Baxter said. "Tenants, when they move in, want to be able to set their furniture up the way they like it; they want to make sure that the place is clean and tidy."

Most tenants will hang pictures or other decorations on the wall "that are homey or unique to them," he acknowledged. "Everybody is entitled to (this)."

Resources

Resources for Calgary renters:

- Calgary Residential Rental Association represents 500 landlords across the city but is also a helpful tool for tenants. Go to crra.ca for more information.
- Alberta's Residential Tenancies Act and advice for tenants is available through Service Alberta at 1-877-427-4088 or servicealberta.ca
- Website landlord andtenant.org, which explains laws for landlords and tenants in easy-to-understand terminology.

Rental prices are down — but not for long

The average cost of renting a two-bedroom apartment in Calgary in spring 2010 was $1,082 per month, according to a Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation (CMHC) survey released in April.

That compares to cities in Quebec such as Sherbrooke, where renting a two-bedroom apartment costs on average of $556, and to Vancouver and Toronto, where the same-sized rental unit cost $1,150 and $1,134 monthly, respectively.

The average cost of renting a two-bedroom apartment in Canada at that time was $848 monthly, making Calgary the third most expensive city in the country to be a tenant.

Despite Calgary's comparatively expensive cost of living, Richard Cho, senior market analyst for the CMHC's Calgary branch, said the most recent reported rental numbers actually represent a rise in vacancy across the city.

But the rental tide in Calgary is about to turn again. "We are forecasting a decline in vacancy," Cho said. "Landlords will have an opportunity to increase rent." KRISTEN LIPSCOMBE

Best value

Only Toronto and Vancouver beat our city when it comes to rental costs, so what Calgary neighbourhoods offer the best bang for your rental bucks?

- Not downtown. Whereas a bachelor apartment in downtown Calgary cost on average $688 in October 2009, the same-sized unit cost $606 in southeast Calgary, the CMHC says.
- Southeast. A one-bedroom cost $973 and a two-bedroom $1,237 downtown, compared to $888 and $975, respectively, in southeast Calgary.

A very Debbie season

Debbie Travis talks festive decor trends, shares the holiday collection she designed for Canadian Tire

DECOR MOMENT

KARL LOHNES
HOME@METRONEWS.CA

Debbie Travis is a four time Gemini-winning television host (her current television series; All For One airs on CBC), author of nine best-selling books and designs a line of signature home goods sold exclusively at Canadian Tire.

This year Debbie designed the entire Christmas collection for Canadian Tire Stores; it's a collection of tree ornaments, wreaths and holiday decor that is on-trend for the holidays and priced for every budget.

I had a chance to ask her a few questions regarding holiday trends and the collection for this year.

What's the most exciting holiday decor trend this year?

I think it has to be holiday fun; it's definitely included in the various collections I've designed. Themes include Masquerade Ball, Candy Cane and Winter Forest (there are six themes to the collection).

You'll see lots of nostalgia (think 1950s), stripes, polka dots, glitter and shine.

There will also be a sense of homemade to some of the collections; a trend that we will see sticking around for a few years.

How do you decorate in your own home?

I am usually in Montreal during the holidays and decorate two very different trees.

I have what I call a 'memory tree' in the living room that highlights family memories through ornaments collected over the years.

My boys would absolutely kill me if they didn't see those familiar ornaments each year!

I then put up a hip, trendy tree in the dining room; it's a way to stay current with trends and have fun when entertaining.

How will this year's holiday decor differ from next year?

There will be different colour themes but I am hoping that ornaments purchased this year can be built up and added on next year.

Collecting memorable ornaments that create memories from year to year is what it is all about.

LUNCH RUSH

ANDREE LAU

This cheery spot has a modern look to match its modern take on Vietnamese.

Kol3 specializes in banh xeo, a stuffed Vietnamese crepe that looks like an omelette but is made of rice flour and turmeric. Their traditional version ($9) is filled with plump shrimp, bean sprouts and your choice of pork, chicken or beef.

This refreshing lunch gets a kick from fresh mustard leaves, basil and lettuce. Take a bite and dip in the accompanying fish sauce. Deelish!

Other banh xeo get more westernized fillings. The bacon cheeseburger one actually works with ground beef, cheese, bacon, onion, tomato, pickles and the fresh herbs. Ketchup replaces the fish sauce.

The Vietnamese sub ($9) is updated with a delicious moist, flaky basa filet crisped with a panko crust and dressed with mayo and wasabi. Mark my words, this is more addictive than the sate beef variety.

Impress with wrapping

Make your loved ones feel special with a beautifully papered present

One of the most special parts of the holiday season is the giving and receiving of gifts. A perfectly wrapped present not only adds to that excitement, but it shows friends and family how important they are to you. That is why

"People underestimate the value of wrapping gifts."

▶ Show you care by taking the time to wrap your perfectly purchased presents.

trend guru Lynn Spence is encouraging all Canadians to consider wrapping their presents this holiday season, rather than using a gift bag.

"People underestimate the value of wrapping gifts," says Spence, style expert and frequent guest on CityTV's CityLine. "Giving someone a wrapped gift shows them you care, and nothing can replace the exhilaration of imagining what's inside, and the joy created when the gift is unwrapped and discovered."

"I really believe in making it more personal, after all you took the time to choose the gift, why not spend a little time making it stand out?" adds Spence.

For example, use an inexpensive reproduction map to cover a gift for the seasoned traveller. Top a gift with a photograph as a way to share a favourite memory or to provide a hint of the gift inside.

"Don't be afraid to use your imagination and be creative," suggests Spence.

Remember, you don't have to wrap gifts alone. Invite your friends over for a night of cocktails, appetizers and fun and wrap your gifts together.

Bryzgalov stifles Flames

Phoenix goalie makes 39 saves as Coyotes win fourth straight

JEFF MCINTOSH/THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Phoenix Coyotes goalie Ilya Bryzgalov keeps a shot from Tim Jackman of the Flames, back, out of the net last night.

Martin Hanzal had a goal and an assist and Ilya Bryzgalov made 39 saves last night as the Phoenix Coyotes won their fourth game in a row, 3-1 over the reeling Calgary Flames.

The Flames outshot Phoenix 16-9 in the first period, but could not solve Bryzgalov, who made several big saves.

The 30-year-old Russian slid across the crease to thwart Rene Bourque after he was set up by Jarome Iginla. Later he stopped Tim Jackman as he cut to the net, then sprawled to thwart Brendan Morrison on the rebound.

With the game still scoreless in the second, Bryzgalov again showed off his acrobatic style, robbing defenceman Jay Bouwmeester, who had raced in and one-timed a pass from behind the net by Matt Stajan.

| COYOTES | FLAMES |
| 3 | 1 |

Phoenix scored twice in the second period to take the lead. Wojtek Wolski scored at 7:13 with a shot over the shoulder of Miikka Kiprusoff from a near-impossible angle.

It was the second goal of the year for Wolski, who scored a career-high 23 last season.

Phoenix doubled its lead at 12:33, scoring eight seconds into its fourth power play of the night.

Hanzal redirected Radim Vrbata's shot, and the puck slid past Kiprusoff off the leg of sprawled Flames forward Alex Tanguay.

Calgary got to within one on Bourque's goal at 16:08 of the third, setting up a dramatic finish, but the Flames could not pull even despite their pouring on the late pressure.

With two minutes remaining, Mikael Backlund's shot on net ignited a scramble in front, during which Tanguay put a shot off the post.

The misery continues for Calgary (7-10-0), which has lost seven of its last eight and has dropped four straight at the Scotiabank Saddledome. Five of the seven losses have been by one goal.

One less Sutter for Flames

12

Before being sent to the AHL, Brett Sutter was a depth player for the Flames this season — registering one assist in four games before getting scratched in 12 straight.

Calgary Flames GM Darryl Sutter traded his son Brett to the Carolina Hurricanes one week after he was charged with assault outside an Arizona bar.

The 23-year-old forward and defenceman Ian White were shipped to the Hurricanes yesterday in exchange for defenceman Anton Babchuk and winger Tom Kostopoulos.

Brett Sutter issued a public apology after his arrest. He is alleged to have punched a cab driver last week in a drunken altercation following the team's rookie dinner.

The move provides Calgary with a little bit of salary cap relief. Babchuk ($1.4 million US) and Kostopoulos ($950,000) are earning less than White, who is on a one-year contract that pays him $2,999,995.

In Carolina, Sutter will be joining another family member.

Cousin Brandon Sutter is an alternate captain with the Hurricanes.

Frigid conditions make ground game crucial for West final

The Calgary Stampeders are prepared to keep the ball on the ground if weather forces them to in Sunday's CFL Western final against Saskatchewan.

Calgary has a deep receiving corps, but if an icy wind, a slick field and a frozen football make passing too risky, the Stamps will put the ball in the hands of running backs Joffrey Reynolds and Jon Cornish.

"We've got some shoes that will work pretty well in the snow," Cornish said yesterday, after a snowbound practice at McMahon Stadium. "Me and Joffrey both relish an opportunity to have an offence based around us at this point.

"We've always been pass-first, and that's the CFL, but if it's coming down to us, I'd be happy to shoulder that responsibility."

Reynolds (1,200 yards) and Cornish (618) ranked third and 10th in rushing yards during the regular season.

Quarterback Henry Burris, named the CFL's all-star yesterday at that position, is prepared to marshall the offence both by land and by air against the Roughriders on Sunday (TSN, 2:30 p.m.).

"We've got to take what they're going to give us. If you're going to load up to stop the run, we've got some weapons outside that we have to get the ball to," Burris said. "Once you start taking those guys away, then we've got to unleash 21 (Reynolds) and 9 (Cornish) and let those two guys pound with their offensive line."

The Roughriders (10-8) advanced to the West final with a 41-38 win over the visiting B.C. Lions in Sunday's semifinal. The Stampeders (13-5) finished first in the West and earned the playoff bye. Calgary hasn't played a game since winning their regular-season finale in Winnipeg on Nov. 5.

The winner of Sunday's game advances to the Grey Cup in Edmonton on Nov. 28 to take on the victor of Sunday's East final between the Montreal Alouettes and Toronto Argonauts (TSN, 11 a.m.).

Today's horoscope

For today's crossword answers and for expanded horoscopes, go to metronews.ca

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 There is no such thing as chance: everything happens for a reason, and your task today is to reason why you have been denied access to something you desire.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 If you compare yourself to other people you will be disappointed as there will always be others who achieve more than you. Compare yourself to who you were yesterday and the day before.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 Be true to yourself and don't cut corners. You can bend the rules if you wish but your conscience will nag at you for not living up to your high ideals and standards.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 If you are finding a simple task difficult for some reason then maybe you should take it as a sign that you need a break. You have been pushing yourself rather hard of late.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug.23 There is a confidence about you at the moment that is really quite eerie. The gods of change are about to move the world in your favor.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 As a Virgo you know that the simplest solution is usually the right solution and you won't go far wrong if you apply that knowledge to a relationship. Jupiter is moving in your favor again and you must move too – for love.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 What happens today will remind you that it's always a mistake to assume that things will stay the same. If you stay flexible and move with the times you'll benefit in ways you cannot imagine.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 Jupiter, planet of good fortune, urges you to put your own interests first today and do only what benefits you. Is that selfish? Maybe. So what!

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 You know that if you go to extremes you will provoke an equally extreme reaction, so why are you toying with the idea of doing something that is sure to annoy a lot of people?

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 You don't take well to criticism and that could lead to problems today as someone is intent on telling you where you've been going wrong.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 You may have to lower your sights a little today, especially if you discover that your cash flow situation is not as good as you would like it to be. Have you been living beyond your means?

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20 You have achieved a lot in recent weeks and you will achieve even more when the Sun crosses the midheaven angle of your chart in a few days time. It's okay to be ambitious. SALLY BROMPTON
